WITHDRAWING.

Members of the Trigg County
Alliance leave the Order on Account of Politics.

[Caldiz Telephone.]

In accordance with a call published in the Telephone a number of representative men of the county and influential members of the Farmers' and Laborers' Union met in the Court House in Cadiz, Monday, County Court day, Nov. 9th. Capt. Lee Turner was elected as Chairman and Mr. J. Frank Ladd, Jr., Secretary.

On motion of H. P. Baker a committee was appointed to draft resolutions expressive of the sentiments and purposes of the meeting, and the Chairman appointed the following gentlemen to constitute the committee: F. P. Ingram, H. P. Baker, P. B. Harrell and Henry Vinson, and after consideration Mr. F. P. Ingram reported the following preamble and resolutions:

WHEREAS, We, members of the Farmers' and Laborers' Union, having joined the order in good faith and believing when we did so that it was calculated, in accordance with its constitution, by laws and declarations of purposes to accomplish a great and lasting good, we gave it our unqualified and hearty endorsement in accordance with the purposes and objects as explained to us; we endorsed the noble sentiments embodied in the declaration of purposes without reserve or denur, for we believed then and believe now that such a movement, if carried out upon the principles laid down thereto, would bring about better and more enlightened state of education among the agricultural and laboring masses in the science of economical government, and thus develop a better condition mentally, morally, socially and financially, creating also a better understanding of the proper methods to employ in helping civil authorities to maintain law and order, as well as teaching all how best to suppress all personal, local, sectional and national prejudices, and all unhealthy rivalry and selfish ambition; and, whereas, believing that these much to be desired ends and aims could only be accomplished in a purely non-partisan and non-political order as described in the constitution, by-laws and declaration of purposes of the Farmers' and Laborers' Union; therefore, we witnessed with regret a disposition manifested by a portion of the membership (as well as the national President, who affirms that politics was born in the order and that it is as full of it as an egg is of meat) to debase the order into a secret political organization, and thereby foster the very evils we hoped to see it crush out of existence; and determining, as we then thought and still think, that the good of the order would be destroyed and its every laudable aim defeated by a continuation of such a course, we met in Cadiz, expressed our views in accordance with our beliefs, and requested a meeting of the membership for this date, to formulate a plan for the reorganization of the Farmers' and Laborers' Union upon the intelligent and conservative basis of its original constitution, by-laws and declaration of purposes; and, whereas, it seems that the president of the order, as well as those of the Emperor of Russia, has demanded of us an apology for exercising the rights of free American citizens; and, whereas, we recognize the power of no man or men to curtail in the smallest sense a single one of our smallest rights, or in any way dictate to us the manner in which we shall exercise the privilege of giving expression to our beliefs and opinions, when the Constitution of the United States guarantees freedom of speech as well as thought, therefore, be it

Resolved, 1st, That we do not conceive that the constitution, by-laws and declaration of purposes of the Farmers' and Laborers' Union, under which we joined the order, are intended for the purpose of giving birth to a political machine, by which the ends of designing and selfish men may be carried out.

Resolved, 2d, That, having received a guarantee of non-interference in our political convictions and religious beliefs when we joined the order, we do not now propose to submit to any infringement thereupon.

Resolved, 3d, That if the order proposes to make itself a political organization, with dictatorial powers vested in the hands of either County, State, or National presidents of the Union, while we do not object to having all who see fit to do so, remain in the order if they believe that any good can be accomplished by such methods, yet holding as we do opposite views, we do not propose to have our rights of citizenship hampered and bound up in such a manner, and hereby withdraw our membership from an order which we believe capable of accomplishing much good if carried out upon the original plan laid down in its constitution, by-laws and declaration of purposes, and also likely to do quite as much harm if run as a portion of the membership seem determined that it shall be.

F. P. Ingram moved the adoption of the resolutions and the motion carried without a dissenting voice.

P. B. Harrell moved that the Kentucky Telephone be requested to publish the proceedings of the meeting in full. The motion carried.

There being no further business, the meeting then adjourned sine die.

NATURE'S CONVULSIONS.

Marvellous Results of the Recent Earthquake in Southern California.

YUMA, Ariz., Nov. 11.—The party which has been engaged part of two months surveying lands in Lower California returned yesterday. The party surveyed the Colorado from its source to its present mouth and made several interesting discoveries. They report that the volcanic region showed the severity of the recent earthquake. Fifteen of the most active volcanoes in what is known as the west group are almost entirely obliterated, the only sign of the former location being the lava-like holes, almost filled with sulphur water. The east group of the 500 volcanoes at Lake Jululu have daily eruptions, and to the south group have been added at least 100 large volcanoes during the period of the earthquakes in July last.

On the South Hill, where a year ago no evidence of volcanoes existed, the grandest one in Lower California now appears. The chief one is in active operation. Its crater opening is 140 feet in extent. Lake Jululu formerly five miles long by half a mile wide, is now twenty-five miles long and twelve to twenty-five miles in width and with an average depth of 12 to 25 feet. Its waters, formerly salt, are now fresh, owing to the overflow of the Colorado. On the homeward journey the party discovered new waterways parallel to the Colorado leading into unexplored country between Colorado and Moes Divido which separates Carter River from Ney River. The newly discovered waterway was found to be the inlet of the Colorado, entering fifteen miles below Yum.

The Official Count.

Harrisburg, Pa., Nov. 11.—The official vote of Pennsylvania is as follows: Auditor General, Gregg, Rep., 411,548; Wright, Dem., 354,167; Hague, Pro., 18,150. State Treasurer, Morrison, Rep., 409,994; Tilden, Dem., 356,197; Drayton, Pro., 18,070. For Constitutional Convention, 172,771; against, 416,542.

Des Meines, Ia., Nov. 11.—The County Board of Supervisors have at last finished the canvass of the vote cast at the last election. Returns received by the Register from all counties make the total vote cast for Governor 420,214. This is the largest vote ever cast in the State. The vote in the Presidential election of 1888 was 404,000. In this Boies, Dem., received 207,575; Wheeler, Rep., 199,759; Westfall, Alliance, 11,918; Gilson, Pro., 902. Boies' plurality is 7,816, lacking 5,064 of being a majority.

A Trip Through Western Kentucky and Tennessee.

REPTON, KY., Nov. 9, 1891.

Editor PRESS.—Having promised some of my friends to give them a few lines through the PRESS on my trip through Western Kentucky and Tennessee I will commence by saying I boarded the South bound train at Repton on Oct. 27, at 7:26 p.m., bound for Grand Rivers, Ky., where I arrived at 4:20 p.m., and was met there by Elmer S. Miller who gave me a hearty welcome and bade me take a seat in his buggy, which by the way, was a little the worse for wear and old age but the Parson assured me it was safe. After a pleasant ride of ten miles over the grand old hills that overlook the would be grand city of Grand Rivers, we arrived at his house a little after dark, where we spent a pleasant night with Brother and Sister Miller, next morning I looked out on a big white frost. After breakfast I walked over the farm, (the object of my visit), then took dinner, after which we were again seated in our buggy and made a safe trip back to Grand Rivers. This country is destined some day to be valuable for grazing purposes. Aboard the West bound train with a ticket for Fulton. Met with the popular drummer, Mat Piles. After finding out that I was looking for a farm, very cordially invited me to stop with him at Winton, 12 miles this side of Fulton, and look at his father-in-law's farm, which I did; after enjoying the hospitality of Mr. Edwards for the night and I started next morning here back for his farm, six miles west of Winton and two miles north of Water Valley. This is on the county line road between Graves and Hickman and in the Bayou Desha Valley, which is a fine body of land, ranging in size from $25 to $40 per acre. It is almost filled with sulphur water. The east group of the 500 volcanoes at Lake Jululu have daily eruptions, and to the south group have been added at least 100 large volcanoes during the period of the earthquakes in July last.

On the South Hill, where a year ago no evidence of volcanoes existed, the grandest one in Lower California now appears. The chief one is in active operation. Its crater opening is 140 feet in extent. ### EXPRESS ROBBERY

Masked Men Hold Up a Chicago Midnight Train.

Dynamite Used to Blow Open the Car Doors.

MILWAUKEE, Nov. 12.—The midnight train from Chicago on the Milwaukee and St. Paul road was robbed by masked men near Western Union Junction, at 1 o'clock this morning.

The train had been out of the junction, twenty-three miles south of this place, about half a mile, when fireman, Edward Averill, who was putting some coal into the furnace, was startled to hear a noise behind him. He turned around and discovered two heavily masked men clambering over the engine tender. Both leveled their double-barreled guns at the fireman and the engineer, "Don't move an inch till we tell you to or we will blow the tops of you d—heads off."

Engineer McKay was directed to run the train to within a point about one mile from Western Union Junction. Here the engineer was commanded to stop.

Both men were ordered to step down out of the cab and get in line ahead of the robbers. They were marched to the express car under cover, and then the work of breaking open the express car began. Several bombs, the fireman thinks, were thrown into the car, and the explosion was terrific and must have awakened every passenger on the train, but notably apared on the scene.

The robbers, undoubtedly, were not less than six or seven in number, judging from the manner in which they conducted operations. The trainmen believe they had a team close at hand with whom to cart away the wives, which were taken bodily out of the car. Fireman Averill's story is the most comprehensive.

"They made me walk ahead of them to the express car," he said, "and they gave me a Jimmy to pry open the boxes. I had to move all the dead matter off the boxes and do their dirty work generally, but I was glad to get off with a whole skin.

"They got the messenger's keys, though he was in no hurry to give them up, and they will have no trouble in getting away with all the money.

"The train was held for over half an hour, and the plans of the robbers had been perfect, they would not have been delayed much. Their entire efforts were centered on the express car, and not a passenger was molested." The fireman thinks there were half a dozen men guarding the coaches, however.

"Less than five minutes out of Western Union Junction," said Messenger Murphy, "the train slowed up suddenly. A gun was pointed through a top window of the car and a second later, a terrific explosion occurred which knocked both myself and Mr. Cook in a head. Half a dozen other explosions followed, and both doors flew off the bolts. Then two men wearing big black masks clambered quickly into the car and covered us with double-barreled guns. We were cautioned to maintain silence at the penalty of getting our heads blown off." After glancing hurriedly about the car the robbers fastened their eyes of the American Express Company. The robbers brought the fireman in a little later and went through all the boxes out on the road-bed. One of the robbers kept us covered with his gun all the time, while the other superintended operations of the fireman.

"Shentlemen, I vos in a pox. I believe you both vos right. Vain ou pou show all your poeks un prove yo vos dot. The other von show all his poeks and prove it vos not dot. The lawyers made both goat speeches, and tam me if the court knows how to decide."

After a moment's silence, the Judge's face brightened up and he continued:

"Shentlemen, I dismiss this case to Squire Duncan's court as he knows more English as I do."

The case was accordingly transferred to Squire Duncan's docket.

OPIUM SMUGGLING.

Big Scheme Discovered By New York Custom-House Officials.

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—The sudden discovery of a wholesale system of opium smuggling across the Canadian border has considerably startled the Custom House officials. In the Custom house there is now lying the largest quantity of opium ever seized, and there is still more to follow.

This afternoon Special Agent Cummings said: "I can not say a word about the matter at present, but I will make public the whole story to-morrow."

It is believed that the opium traffic has been started by some of the opium growers of India. It is not thought that it comes from China. The Indian merchants have first sent the drug to Canada and it has then been smuggled across the border into the United States.

In addition to having agents in Canada, about three or four months ago two or three well educated natives from Bombay arrived in this country by the way of Europe. They ostensibly came on some other business, but the real object of their visit is believed to have been the completion of elaborate arrangement for increasing the opium traffic in this country. As the first attempt at smuggling proved so successful, it was determined to operate it on a larger scale.

The ramifications of the scheme are intricate and ingenious, but with the information already in the hands of the Treasury officials an effectual stop will be put to opium smuggling.

Lecture on Poisons, Adult One.

A gentleman who lectured on poisons printed his tickets as above. Suggestive, certainly, and even sarcastic. What fools are they who suffer the inroads of disease when they might be cured.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is sold under a positive guarantee of its benefiting or curing in every case of Liver, Blood and Lung disease, or money paid for it will be cheerfully refunded.

In all blood taints and impurities of whatever names or nature, it is most positive in its curative effects. Pimples, Blotches, Eruption, and all Skin and Scalp diseases, are radically cured by this wonderful medicine. Scrofulous disease may affect the glands, causing swellings or tumor; the bones, causing "Fever-sores," "White Swellings," "Hippont Disease;" or the tissues of the lungs, causing Pulmonary Consumption. Whatever its manifestations may be, "Golden Medical Discovery" cures it.

Known More English as I do.

MATCOUTAH, ILL., Nov. 11.—The Township Commissioners in Lookout Glace Township were sued yesterday by a lumber firm for the small sum of $248. Two trials have been held before Justice of the Peace, and the case has now been taken to the County Court. Much ill-feeling has been engendered and the costs are assuming large proportions. The first trial was called before a German man, Justice of the Peace. After the evidence was all in and the eloquence of the attorneys employed in the case had subsided, the honorable court arose and delivered the following remarkable decision:

"Shentlemen, I vos in a pox. I believe you both vos right. Vain ou pou show all your poeks un prove yo vos dot. The other von show all his poeks and prove it vos not dot. The lawyers made both goat speeches, and tam me if the court knows how to decide."

GIVE THANKS.

The President's Proclamation for November 26.

Washington, Nov. 13.—The President to-day signed a proclamation fixing Thursday, Nov. 26, as a day of Thanksgiving.

The text of the President's proclamation is as follows:

It is a very glad incident of the marvelous prosperity of the year now drawing to a close that its helpful and reassuring touch has been felt by all of our people. It has been a wide as our country, and so special that every home has felt its comforting influence.

It is too great to be the work of man's power, and too particular to be the device of his mind. To God, the benevolent and all-wise, who makes the labors of men to be fruitful, redeem their losses by his grace, and the measure of whose giving is as much beyond the thoughts of man as it is beyond his deserts, the praise and gratitude of the people of this favored nation are justly due.

Now, therefore, I, Benjamin Harrison, President of the United States of America, do hereby appoint Thursday, the 26th day of November present, to be a day of joyful thanks giving to God for the bounties of his providence, for the peace in which we are permitted to enjoy them, and for the preservation of those institutions of civil and religious liberty which he gave our fathers the wisdom to devise and establish and use to the courage to preserve. Among the appropriate observances of the day are rest from toil, worship in the public congregation, the renewal of family ties about our American firesides and thoughtful helpfulness to ward those who suffer lack of the body or of the spirit.

On hanging is already booked for Henderson county and another will likely follow. The last candidate for the honor of the rope is a negro named Sip Johnson, who, when reprobred for swearing, retorted by cutting Wm. Taylor's throat from ear to ear.

San Francisco has already raised $50,000 as a preliminary step towards paying the expenses of the delegates of the next National Conventions of the Democratic and Republican parties, provided those conventions are held in the golden city.

Dr. Allen Tupper, a Louisville Baptist divine, said in his sermon Sunday that the American people gave only $10,000,000 for the elevation of the nations, while they spent $5,000,000 for artificial flowers, $8,000,000 for kid gloves, $125,000 for dress goods, and $180,000 for tobacco.

The clouds appear to be clearing away from eastern Kentucky skies. Wesley and William Whitaker, two members of the Eversole faction, have been sentenced to the penitentiary for life; the last of the Gilliland gang in Pulaski county has surrendered to the county authorities, and the Harlan county Bulletin says: "All we need in this part of Harlan is more good soon dogs."

James King, the illicit whisky seller and wife debaser of Dixon, spent last night in the Henderson jail. He was brought to this city yesterday afternoon by Deputy Sheriff Sam Campbell and John Harley, and is being taken to Owensboro to be again incarcerated there. The procedure is under the order of Judge Givens, who but a few days ago had King brought from Owensboro to Dixon to stand his trial, and from the demonstration that has been made at Dixon, apprehending a mob, had King a second time removed from the temptation of the avenging-disposed citizens of Webster. It is said that Judge Givens is making strenuous efforts to find out who was in the mob, from which King escaped just in time to save his neck, with a view to having them punished. Several prominent citizens have been indicted. It is said the best people of the community were in the mob, and that public sentiment is very much against the judge in his endeavor to punish the participants.

Albert Church, postmaster at Mt. Airy, Ga., was shot and killed.

Wm. Babbitt, a distiller, was found burned to death in his home near Somersett, Ky.

Secretary Tillman of the Farmers' Alliance spoke against the Third Party idea.

Geo. A. Board, cashier of the suspended Cheyenne Bank, Cheyenne, Wyoming, killed himself.

Near Newport, Ark., John Summers stabbed and killed his brother-in-law, Andrew Spencer.

We understand Dr. B. Marble lost his house and its contents by fire a few days ago, but have not learned the particulars about the burning.

The explosion of dynamite at Orono Landing, N. Y., is said to have produced rain over a square mile.

Fredonia.

Dr Woods and wife, of Kansas and Mrs Lou Johnson, of Mt. Vernon, Ills., have been visiting relatives here for two or three weeks. Mrs Woods and Mrs Johnson were raised here but have been absent for many years.

There will be services at Bethlehem-tended church here Sunday night.

A large crowd from Bethlehem-tended church here Sunday night.

Albert Guess and wife, of Crittenton, attended church here last Sunday.

It is a very glad incident of the year now drawing to a close that its helpful and reassuring touch has been felt by all of our people. It has been a wide as our country, and so special that every home has felt its comforting influence.

It is too great to be the work of man's power, and too particular to be the device of his mind. To God, the benevolent and all-wise, who makes the labors of men to be fruitful, redeem their losses by his grace, and the measure of whose giving is as much beyond the thoughts of man as it is beyond his deserts, the praise and gratitude of the people of this favored nation are justly due.

Now, therefore, I, Benjamin Harrison, President of the United States of America, do hereby appoint Thursday, the 26th day of November present, to be a day of joyful thanks giving to God for the bounties of his providence, for the peace in which we are permitted to enjoy them, and for the preservation of those institutions of civil and religious liberty which he gave our fathers the wisdom to devise and establish and use to the courage to preserve. Among the appropriate observances of the day are rest from toil, worship in the public congregation, the renewal of family ties about our American firesides and thoughtful helpfulness to ward those who suffer lack of the body or of the spirit.

It is a very glad incident of the year now drawing to a close that its helpful and reassuring touch has been felt by all of our people. It has been a wide as our country, and so special that every home has felt its comforting influence.

It is too great to be the work of man's power, and too particular to be the device of his mind. ### Paying for a Frolic.

Saturday John York and Wm. Barrack were before Judge Moore to answer the charge of disturbing religious worship at Siccus Chappel. Barrack entered a plea of guilty and was fined $20. York entered a plea of not guilty, but the jury took a different view of the matter and charged him $20. The evidence showed that the boys fired a pistol and exercised their lungs too near the church. Our courts have had a number of cases of this character recently and the result usually makes such sport an expensive luxury.

WILL Plead Klepto manne.

The examining trial of young Millikan, charged with breaking into Clement's store at Tolu has been postponed until after circuit court.

It is stated that he will enter the plea of insanity, or in other words enter proof to show that he is a klepto manne in burglary, which means that he has no powers to resist the temptation of breaking into houses and carrying away valuables.

He has upon more occasions than one shown that he has a knack or an insane desire for these kinds of depredations.

Crittenden's Preachers.

Probably no county, in proportion to its population, has furnished, to the various denominations, as many ministers as Crittenden. Among the native preachers, now active in and preparing for the ministry are, of the Missionary Baptists: Carter, Gibbs, Bell, Eaton, Fox, Franks, Pierce, LaRue, Holloman, Campbell, Summers, Beabout and Robeson. Of Methodists there are in the Louisville conference, Bigham, Rushing, the two Logards, (father and son), the two Lovers, (brothers), Stubblefield, McConnell, and Summers. Then Haynes and Martin are preparing for the ministry in this church and have licenses to preach, so has R. S. Clark.

The Cumberland Presbyterians have Price and Travis, who are active in the ministry, while Davis, McMillan, Jacobs and Boisture are in the preparatory department.

FARM GARDEN

SAWFLY BORER IN WHEAT.

An insect that causes wheat to lodge in many localities. Considerable complaint has been heard this season about lodged wheat. There are several causes for this lodging. Sometimes the stem is weak because of too rapid growth by an oversupply of available plant food. Sometimes the trouble lies in the variety and sometimes it is occasioned by insects that damage the stalks.

In the cut, a reproduction from a pamphlet by Professor Comstock, is illustrated the sawfly borer, which has occasioned trouble in many localities by attacking the wheat while nearly ripe; while it reduces the yield but slightly, it weakens the grain materially.

The adult insect is a four-winged fly belonging to the order Hymenoptera, the order that includes the bees, wasps and ants; and it is a member of the family Tenthredinidae of that order, a family comprising the insects commonly known as sawflies. This popular name refers to the fact that in this family the female insects are furnished with a more or less saw-like organ. This rises near the caudal end of the body, and is the ovipositor. By means of it the insects are able to make incisions in the tissues of plants for the reception of their eggs.

On examining the stalks of wheat at harvest time by splitting them through the sheath lengthwise, it will be found that some of them have been tunnelled by an insect larva.

This larva had eaten a passage through each of the joints so that it could pass freely from one end of the cavity of the straw to the other.

If infested straws be examined a week or ten days before the ripening of the wheat, the cause of this injury can be found at work within them. It is at that time a yellowish, milky white worm, varying in size from one-fifth of an inch to one-half an inch in length. The smaller ones may not have bored through a single joint, while the larger ones will have tunneled all of them except, perhaps, the one next to the ground.

As the grain becomes ripe the larva works its way toward the ground, and at the time of the harvest the greater number of them have penetrated to the root. Here in the lowest part of the cavity of the straw they make preparations for the winter.

According to a correspondent of Rural New Yorker the most obvious method of combating the insect is to attack it while it is in the stubble, that is to say, some time between the wheat harvest and the first of the following May. If the stubble can be burned in the fall, the larvae will be destroyed.

The same thing could be accomplished by plowing the stubble under, which would prevent the escape of adult flies.

In the cut a represents the female fly beginning to oviposit; b, female with ovipositor inserted in the straw; c, insect with wings expanded; d, straws cut by the larva; e, larva in cell at base of straw.

Points in Cider Vinegar Making.

L. R. Bryant, secretary of the Cider and Cider Vinegar Makers' Association of the Northwest, recently had the following to say in Prairie Farmer:

The essentials for making cider vinegar on a small scale are a grinder to grind up the apples into a fine pulp, a good press to extract the juice, barrels to put the juice in, a fruit proof room or cellar to store the pressed apples, and, of course, a good supply of decent rye flour.

On the approach of freezing weather rack off the vinegar stock into clean barrels (one-third full) filled by means of a faucet (not in the barrel), the barrel, or preferably with a siphon pump, a five-eighths rubber tubing. This should be raised an inch above the bottom of the barrel to avoid drawing off the sediment. All settings should be put into a separate barrel. The barrels can now be ranked up in the winter quarters, the bungs taken out and remain undisturbed until the contents become good vinegar, provided they are kept in a furnace heated cellar or artificially heated room.

An ordinary cellar is too cool to make vinegar quickly, and if such a place can be removed to a common shed on the approach of freezing weather, the barrels will always be rank if the contents have a barrel moved. Never put barrels in the sun in hot weather, as they will be spoiled and the contents lost. When the vinegar is thoroughly made a cool, dry cellar is an excellent place to store it, and the barrels may be filled and buried up.

To make good cider or vinegar use good, clean apples; expose to heat and air is what makes vinegar; to have bright, clear vinegar free from muck, rack it before moving it, if it had been standing long length of time, and thoroughly clean the barrels as soon as emptied. Good vinegar cannot be made out of a large quantity of water and a little cider. Strong, late made cider may bear the addition of a little water, but that made early in the season will not.

Agricultural Notes.

The Porter is a profitable apple.

No stock appreciates a dry, clean bed more than cows.

Remember that lard thinned with kerosene is good to clean out the ice that infests the hog's winter quarters.

Many farmers use parchment butter paper in place of cloth for covering butter rolls. They say it helps to sell their butter.

Farmers ought to remember that the experimental station's chief aim is to help the farmer, and there is no better way of insuring this object than by visiting one's state station now and then with a view to acquainting one's self with what is being done there.

MANGEL WURZEL.
A few of the Varieties Most Popular for Feeding Cattle Described.
Farmers as well as dairymen are each year learning the value of mangel wurzel, and to use it as a sole food for cattle. These roots are juicy and refreshing, adding not only to the health of the animal, but being also of value as food for milk and meat.

In the cut, a reproduction from a pamphlet by Professor Comstock, is illustrated the sawfly borer, which has occasioned trouble in many localities by attacking the wheat while nearly ripe; while it reduces the yield but slightly, it weakens the grain materially.

The adult insect is a four-winged fly belonging to the order Hymenoptera, the order that includes the bees, wasps and ants; and it is a member of the family Tenthredinidae of that order, a family comprising the insects commonly known as sawflies. This popular name refers to the fact that in this family the female insects are furnished with a more or less saw-like organ. This rises near the caudal end of the body, and is the ovipositor.

Another productive sort is the yellow oval mangold wurzel. This is of distinct shape, being intermediate between the long and globe varieties. It is hardy and vigorous.

Lane's improved imperial sugar is an American variety of fine grain than the ordinary beet, being good for table use as well as cattle food.

Yellow globe is a sort too well known to require special mention. It is well adapted for growing in shallow soil. The long red mangold wurzel produces round, smooth, smooth and irregular in shape, with a small top.

In order to be well preserved for gradual consumption during the winter, Thorburn advises that mangold wurzels be heaped to a height of perhaps six feet on a dry, sloping situation; cover at first with a piece of canvas, and as the cold increases this should be replaced by about six inches of either salt hay, straw, seaweed, or even cornstalks. Let this covering be displaced by the wind a light layer of earth is necessary. So soon as this soil becomes frozen about six or eight inches deep, it will be safe to lay over the entire heap. By following up this gradual process of covering all danger of heating will be obviated and the roots will keep in perfect order.
